- I was really looking forward to this course and was disappointed to find that most of it was run with AI content. There appeared to be really little effort given on the instructor's side. I do empathize that the class was not particularly engaging as it had really low attendance, but it felt like for those who did show up, we were really just being read slides that were created using AI and often had misleading or wrong images with the text. The disclosure of AI only really came after a complaint and after she had emailed all students about low participating and AI usage without disclosure. While I did not struggle much in this class because I have some experience in this field, I found my group members were really struggling because when they got points marked down and tried to get assistance they were told to reread the project instructions. that's a very discouraging way to learn and I can understand the lack of desire to continue trying in the course. I do appreciate that while we had a semester long project, she did give us some weeks off from lectures so we could spend the time with our groups, making scheduling much easier. the course was supposed to be 3 hours every Wednesday, but we ended up being dismissed early every class (after about 1.5-2 hours) and the course itself last met on November 19th. It overall felt like she was really over this class and course and so the students who did show up ended up not really getting the full benefits of the class. The instructor herself is a nice person and I was happy to hear her reminding us to be confident in our analysis and not soften our recommendations! It just feels like she was leaning a lot on AI this semester and perhaps due to the low attendance and effort of other students, checked out a lot.

- Best Professor
- Thank you for an amazing semester. You're a phenomenal teacher.
- I really appreciate Professor Okuboyejo for being patient with us and extending deadlines.
- Sena was an excellent professor and taught at a high level, but in an easy-to-interpret and understandable way. She was willing to answer all questions and made sure to ask us if we had questions at the end of each lecture, and was more willing to stay and teach us. Highly recommend the class to anyone interested in BI.
